Welcome Wagon hostess hangs up her basket

by Stacy Wescoe

Beverly Seik the wheels behind Dillsburg's Welcome Wagon for the past two years, has decided to jump off the wagon train to become more involved with her husband Edward's Mechanicsburg construction firm, Sewall Inc.

Beverly's decision to no longer serve Dillsburg as the area Welcome Wagon hostess was prompted by her desire to try something new. "I love the people I have visited over the last two years, and there was not one person I didn't like," Beverly reminisced. "But I like to try new things," she explained.

Welcome Wagon International has functioned as a welcoming committee for 62 years, welcoming people who have just moved into the area or made a change of residence and also makes calls to mothers who have just had babies and engaged girls. Special occasions like 100th birthdays and 50th wedding anniversaries are also included inWelcome Wagon visits.

A typical Welcome Wagon call made by Beverly to a new resident in Dillsburg begins with welcoming the family to the area and presenting them with a basket filled with cards and small gifts from area businesses. Beverly attains the cards and gifts by selling the Welcome Wagon program to the area businesses. She then provides a background on each business represented in the basket to the new resident and encourages them to visit the sponsors bringing their cards.

Beverly sees the Welcome Wagon program as very beneficial giving a lot of exposure to the services provided by area businesses. "The majority take their cards back," she said. "It's like personalized advertising."

Beverly also brings a civic packet which includes maps of Dillsburg and the surrounding Harrisburg area, Red Cross pamphlets, Tot-Finders for those with little children, and out of state maps. A woman who received a visit from Beverly called thanking her for the map she had left that allowed her to quickly locate Holy Spirit Hospital for an emergency appendectomy when her appendix burst. "That made me feel real good," expressed Beverly. "It was a very rewarding feeling," she continued. A thank you note was also sent to Welcome Wagon's national headquarters in Memphis, Tenn commending Beverly for her help.

Beverly became interested in Welcome Wagon from a friend who encouraged her to apply for the open position as an area hostess. "I wanted something to do with my extra time," said Beverly. "I went through a three day training program learning how to make a call, but before my first visit I had to sell five businesses the Welcome Wagon program," she explained.

During the two years as Dillsburg's Welcome Wagon hostess, Beverly made calls to over 400 households by visiting up to 30 homes a month also including Franklintown, Wellsville, and Rossville. "I really liked the people and enjoyed seeking the sponsors," Beverly sincerely said. "Everyone was always very open and polite."

Beverly, who is originally from Washington, Pa., has lived in Dillsburg with her husband Edward for 23 years. She is the mother of three and has four grandchildren.

Toll Free Number Available to Voters

Ron Turo, Republican candidate for the 199th district seat in the House of Representatives, has announced that he is making a toll free number available to the voters of Adams, Cumberland and York Counties. Mr. Turo said, "I strongly feel that the voters of the 199th district should be able to voice their concerns and opinions to their candidate for State Representative. I have been told by many voters that they feel they are rarely given the opportunity to participate in State Government."

The toll free number, 1-800-527-TURO, will give area voters that opportunity.

Welfare Fraud

Rep. Bruce Smith said today that Pennsylvanians can report suspected cases of welfare fraud to the State Department of Public Welfare.

Smith noted that a fair system of welfare provides assistance only to those truly in need. For that reason every effort should be made to find cases of fraud and abuse in the system, he said.

Individuals may make anonymous reports of suspected welfare fraud to the Department at 1-800-932-0582.

Republican Club To Meet

We may be slow in starting 1990, but we are in gear now. The club has two meetings for the fall, September 20 and October 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Range End Country Club. The meetings will be held in the ground-level meeting room (the former bowling alley). You can enter this area off of the parking lot, the pair of doors across from the steps from where we used to enter. Refreshments will be served at both meetings.

Representative Don Dorr will be guest speaker at our September meeting. He will explain the upcoming reapportionment and its effect upon Northern York County and Congressman Bill Goodling. The election to succeed Congressman Goodling may well be both the most expensive in York County history, as well as the most important election in our lifetime.

John Lowery, Chairman of the Nominating Committee will update those present on problems that the committee encountered. Input ideas and attendance on September 20th is needed to continue the club. A strong turnout is the best way to show that you really care. Bring your neighbors, friends and relatives. Republicans preferred.

Ron Turo, the Republican Candidate for State Representative of the 199th Legislative District will also be attending the September meeting. Ron will update all of us on his campaign and its importance to a Republican majority in 1991 in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. It is just one more reason for you to attend our first meeting of 1990. Club members who live in Franklintown, Franklin Township, Washington Township and the Dover area residents of the 199th Legislative District.

Thank You

Thanks to my family and friends for their visits, cards and prayers during my recent stay in the hospital.

Barn Fire

Upon reaching the site he said, "The Red Cross always checks in at the Command Post to find out their needs, and the amount of firefighters."

He and his other two helpers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, also of York, were kept busy throughout the day tending to the needs of over 100 fire personnel.

According to White, Hardees of Dillsburg was supplying all the firefighters and firepolice with hamburgers and drink for lunch.

Since firepolice were spread out in all directions, at the many intersections along Routes 74 and 194 directing traffic away from the scene, he figured it would take him about an hour to reach them all.

"If we need relief," Flickinger said, "I will call up to the Chapter house and they will send some one up." He didn't expect to leave the scene until early evening.

Bair Station of Spring Grove came the farthest, over twenty miles. Not only did they travel the farthest, the firefighters were up all night responding to another barn fire in Reading Township on Miller Road, Adams County.

According to Bair Station's Fire Chief, Dennis McNeil, he "never made it home." He said he was, "out since 11:00 p.m. (at the other barn fire) and was on his way home when this started." He recalled he was in the area of Big Mount when he received the dispatch sometime after 8:00 a.m.

Arriving on the scene at around 8:45 a.m. with 8-10 men, he said the barn had fallen in by the time they arrived. Smoke was billowing out of the smoldering hay bales within the fallen structure.

Photos by Marie Chomicki

Remaining hay bales had to be bulldozed to enable the firemen to completely extinguish the fire. A couple of hot spots erupted at around 4:00 a.m.

For a station which recently is experiencing some controversy of whether or not they should continue to exist, McNeil feels they showed their worth that morning, having had responded to two barn fires in a single twelve- hour period.

According to McNeil, ever since early 1989 the Township Supervisors of West Manchester Township were trying to abolish Bair Station.

Captain Dennis Stoner, Washington Fire Company, Mechanicsburg, arrived at 9:10 a.m. with a crew of 7.

"They are bull dozing the hay away," said Stoner a little before noon. He said there was hay and straw on top of the barn.

"Could of taken a month, if didn't bulldoze," said Plowman when speaking about extinguishing the fire.

"The fire is not over when you leave the scene," he added. "A couple of hot spots erupted at around 4:00 a.m."

Clean-up lasted until well past midnight, after which Chief Blough went home to get some rest.

The milking cows were taken by stock trailers to neighboring farms immediately following the fire.

Responding were Franklintown, Dillsburg, Monaghan, Wellsville, East Berlin, Bair, Lewisberry, York Springs, Lake Meade, New Kingston, S. Middleton, Upper Allen and Washington, Lower Allen and Mechanicsburg 27 were on standby.

Fifteen fire stations were called to respond to the early morning blaze at the Cope residence. Over 75 firefighters were utilized, primarily to haul water. Water was obtained from near the Northern High School and Middle School, the Dillsburg water tower and Altland's pond along Rt. 74.

The council also authorized the same company to prepare a study to provide for a pension plan for non-uniform employees.

The studies will be conducted at no cost to the borough. Borough Manager J. Chadwick Wagner said the studies will take approximately six weeks to complete.

The council also authorized Wagner to attend The Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs fall conference on October 26-28.

In an effort to coordinate recreational activities in the borough and to establish a comprehensive recreation plan, the council appointed a recreation committee. Members of the committee are as follows: Councilman Rick Baker of W. York Street; Chairman, Barbara Virtue of E. Harrisburg Street, Mary Lou Bytof of S. Second Street, and Edward Cometa of W. Harrisburg Street.

According to Council President John Creary, the committee will serve as a liason between the council and the Logan Park Authority. Its members also will attend government meetings on the state and local level.

One serviceman wept with joy with experiencing the warm receptions, she says. That man, who had served in the Vietnam War, previously had received only hostility from the folks at home.

According to Mrs. Gordon, that seasoned veteran told the young soldiers that it makes him proud to serve our country, knowing that its people support his efforts.
